Dear Dr ,

Re: Free Cancer Education for GP's and Primary Care Clinicians – sent on behalf of GIST Cancer UK

I am writing to alert you to a recently released educational video for GP's and Primary Care Clinicians that I am hoping you can use in the protected education time for GP's in your practice in the coming months.

<https://www.gistcancer.org.uk/healthcare-professionals/>

This training material has been developed by GP and Cancer Lead for Gloucestershire Dr Sadaf Haque, working in collaboration with GIST Cancer UK and the UK's leading GIST Sarcoma clinicians. It is designed to help GP's and Primary Care clinicians gain awareness and a better understanding of the possible presentation of GIST (Gastrointestinal Stromal Tumour) in general practice.
